Health systems are complicated. We're here to help

Get connected to a care coordinator through the Community Care Hub

Health goes beyond just visiting the doctor. It's about making sure people have what they need to be healthy, including stable housing, nutritious food, a steady income, folks around them who speak their language and share their lived experience, and social connections. There are a number of statewide services to help get folks the care they need, including the Community Care Hub that helps those who have a number of complex needs get connected to someone who can help them every step of the way.

How the Community Care Hub Works

We want to help build a healthier region. The Community Care Hub helps us do that by connecting people to a care coordinator at one of our trusted partner organizations. These organizations help them find the right basic, medical, and cultural support, and help them break down understand the existing systems of care available to them.

We help connect people to:

Clinics & Doctors

Food Assistance

Housing & Shelter
